

KNOWLEDGE AND POWER BOOK LIST

If you order books on your own (rather than getting them through the UBC Bookstore), be certain to get the same editions, ensuring that the books have the same ISBN numbers as the ones below. We rely on the fact that we are reading from the same translations (where applicable), and that we are literally ‘on the same page’ when we discuss these texts in seminars and tutorials, or refer to them in essays. The titles as they are given here may differ at times from those on the lecture schedule (where, for example, the two plays about Oedipus are distinguished by author, rather than given the collective title Two Faces of Oedipus): below you will find the titles as they are actually recorded in the UBC Bookstore system, so that there is no confusion about which edition to acquire.

Please also note that not all the texts listed on our lecture schedule appear here: these additional texts (for example, “Why is Diotima a Woman?” or Galileo’s “Letter to the Grand Duchess Christina”) will be provided in a separate course package that you must purchase from the UBC Bookstore.
